

Figure S2. Atlantic stacks constructed based on different alignment targets for the (a) Intermediate North Atlantic and (b) Intermediate South Atlantic. The termination onset is not affected by the choice of alignment target (regardless of whether the target is from within a particular region), but millennial-scale features differ between stacks with different targets.