

Geophysical Research Letters

Supporting Information for

The mighty Susquehanna-extreme floods in Eastern North America during the past two millennia

Michael Toomey^{1*}, Meagan Cantwell², Steven Colman³, Thomas Cronin¹, Jeffrey Donnelly³, Liviu Giosan³, Clifford Heil⁴, Robert Korty⁵, Marci Marot⁶, Debra Willard⁵

1. Florence Bascom Geoscience Center, U.S. Geological Survey, Reston, VA 20192, 2. Department of Geology, College of William & Mary, Williamsburg, VA 23185, 3. Department of Geology & Geophysics, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, Woods Hole, MA 02543. 4. Graduate School of Oceanography, University of Rhode Island, Narragansett, RI, 02882 5. Department of Atmospheric Sciences, Texas A&M University, TAMU3150, College Station TX, 77843. 6. St. Petersburg Coastal and Marine Science Center, United States Geological Survey, St. Petersburg, FL 33701.

Additional Supporting Information (Files uploaded separately)

Data tables containing radiocarbon, ²¹⁰Pb, pollen, grain-size and XRF information presented in the main text are included as a supplementary .xlsx file.